Executive Summary

- Tenured Associate Professor of Computer Information Systems at Tarleton State University.
- Scholar of information science and AI-mediated systems, developing foundational theory on apprehension, documentary environments, and systems mediation, with applications in computational artifacts and programming language design.
- Established record of empirical research in information systems, digital trust, cybersecurity behavior, and technology adoption, complementing a current research program in foundational theory and system design.
- Technology leader with more than 20 years of experience in software architecture, engineering, and research and development, including leadership of globally distributed teams and large-scale technology initiatives.
- Dissertation committee member or co-chair for 13 doctoral students across Information Science, Data Science, Cybersecurity, Health Sciences, Applied Aging, Health Services Research, and Business Computer Information Systems.

Scholarship

Research Focus

- Foundational information science, with particular emphasis on apprehension, documentary environments, and systems mediation. Current research develops a theoretical account of informing and its implications for AI-mediated systems, human judgment, and computational environments. This work extends from foundational theory into the design and implementation of research software, particularly programming languages. Complementary empirical research addresses information systems, technology adoption, trust, and information disclosure.

Doctoral Dissertation

- An empirical study of quality and satisfaction with a focus on creating a parsimonious measurement instrument in an information space, University of North Texas, August 2014. https://doi.org/10.12794/metadc699914

Professional Experience

- Founder and Principal, SenTech Software, Godley, Texas, 1998 to present. Provides occasional consulting on software architecture, system design, technology assessment, and infrastructure, supporting organizations in leveraging technology effectively.
- Leader, Software Development / Global Manager, Underwriters Laboratories Workplace Health and Safety, Franklin, Tennessee, 2012 to 2015. Directed research, development, and product delivery for the Workplace Health and Safety business unit. Led a globally distributed team of architects, software engineers, UX designers, developers, and QA specialists to deliver large scale software systems. Established a global delivery group that remains operational today. Began tenure as Senior Director of Software Development.

- Director of Decision Support, University of North Texas, Denton, Texas, 2006 to 2012. Created and led the Decision Support department, working under the system chancellor's direction while reporting to the AVP of Finance. Engaged directly with institutional executive leadership and the Board of Regents to develop system wide performance metrics and deliver high level reporting, dashboards, and analytic insights supporting strategic decision making. Built a team capable of translating complex institutional data into actionable intelligence. Began as an analyst.
- Consultant, Focus Technologies, now Motio, Plano, Texas, 2004 to 2006. Engaged with clients including Verizon, Northrop Grumman, and the Defense Information Systems Agency on business intelligence, data analysis, and secure reporting implementations. Consulted on enterprise deployments of IBM Cognos ReportNet, including report design, data modeling, and Framework Manager optimization. Work exposed me to cybersecurity considerations in enterprise and federal contexts, shaping early experience in secure, large scale information systems.
- Chief Architect, Postfuture, now Postfuture Harte Hanks, Richardson, Texas, 1999 to 2001 and 2002 to 2004. Joined the founding team as lead technical architect for enterprise wide digital marketing and email platforms, supporting global campaigns for Microsoft, Best Buy, and other major clients. Solely responsible for system architecture and design, while personally implementing the majority of the code. Initiated early research and development in psychometric profiling of user interactions with marketing content, then scaled the platform to support dynamic content delivery, email template management, and sophisticated tracking mechanisms. Developed the first XML based transactional mail system for Best Buy and implemented early adoption of SPF email validation protocols. Established secure, privacy compliant systems with anti spam safeguards, providing the technical foundation for sustained global marketing operations.
